

Dublin modules

The European Asylum Curriculum also provides essential training on the Dublin system, which determines the Member State responsible for examining an asylum application. Through its two focused modules, the curriculum first covers the Dublin III Regulation, offering a comprehensive understanding of its legal framework and operational procedures. Building on this, the second module concentrates on the Identification of potential Dublin cases, equipping practitioners with the tools to correctly identify and manage such cases in practice. Together, these modules aim to strengthen the effective application of the Dublin system, promoting fair responsibility-sharing and contributing to the efficiency of the common European asylum system.

On the topic of Dublin, the European Asylum Curriculum offers 2 modules, namely:

- Dublin III Regulation
- Identification of potential Dublin cases
