

Information and Analysis of Developments in Asylum

The EUAA collects information from diverse sources and produces overviews and analyses of developments in legislation, policies, practices and jurisprudence related to asylum and reception systems. The information is vital to examine the evolution of the Common European Asylum System, identify emerging trends and inform evidence-based decision-making. The EUAA manages public and restricted platforms to help foster the exchange of information across EU+ countries and promote continued cooperation.

Database on International Protection in Europe

The EUAA Database on International Protection in Europe (DIP) is the trusted source of comparable information on international protection across 30 EU+ countries (EU Member States, Iceland, Norway and Switzerland). It contains information on policies and practices at the national level and captures developments related to the functioning of the Common European Asylum System (CEAS). Each stage of the asylum process is described, enabling users to compare practices across Europe.

The database also contains interactive data visualisations which map the key stakeholders and their activities in international protection.

The content on the database is verified and validated by national authorities on a regular basis. The information is summarised in English with links to the original sources. Advanced browsing features allow users to search for specific information using various filters.

Sign up for quarterly updates on the most recent developments in international protection by sending us an email request.

Query System

The EUAA Query System allows national administrations to request detailed information from other EU+ countries on policies and practices related to the Common European Asylum System (CEAS).

Queries and surveys are launched through the EUAA Query Portal, a restricted platform for registered users. The portal enables users to have quick access to information on changing patterns in asylum trends. They can also access query replies, summary reports and undertake searches by topic, country, date and key words.
