

1.3.2. Communication and media presence

This section should be read in conjunction with section 1.1.4 Communication blackout and media coverage of the EUAA report Sudan - Country Focus \(26 April 2024\) as the main issues addressed there remain relevant and valid during the reference period of this report.

☐ (a) Crackdown on media outlets and conflict media coverage

According to the Sudanese Journalists Syndicate, an estimated 90 % of the country's media infrastructure has been destroyed since the outbreak of the conflict, with around 1 000 journalists losing their jobs,^{499} hundreds driven into exile^{500} and some disappeared or killed.^{501} Women journalists have been targeted with sexual violence.^{502} In many cases, attacks against reporters also extended to their family members.^{503} The conflict has left electricity supply lines and communication networks destroyed in Khartoum, Darfur and elsewhere in the country.^{504} Several sources explained how the insecurity caused by the conflict generally affected the reporting across the country: journalists being intimidated, harassed, arrested,^{505} killed or driven into exile, as well as interruption of internet and mobile services affected journalistic reporting in the conflict zones.^{506} The dangerous working environment for journalists has led to self-censorship,^{507} lack of reporting on the ground^{508} and underreporting of events.^{509}

International media coverage of the conflict was limited^{510} as few foreign journalists managed to enter Sudan, let alone spend significant periods of time observing the conflict.^{511} Moreover, the reference period saw the Sudanese government suspending the work of several international news outlets in the country.^{512} For further information on the situation of media workers, see section 2.1 Journalists and treatment of media personnel of the EUAA report Sudan - Country Focus \(April 2024\).

☐ (b) Propaganda war

Both the SAF and the RSF disseminated disinformation, propaganda and hate speech through their social media channels^{513} and sought to shape content in ways that advanced their preferred narratives of the conflict.^{514} Traditional media such as Sudanese National Television have supported the SAF through coordinated war propaganda, broadcasting numerous reports of alleged SAF victories over the RSF and misleading video material on the army's control of territory.^{515}

One confidential source consulted by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Netherlands was quoted as saying that the parties to the conflict had infiltrated online chat groups used by journalists and human rights activists. Moreover, both conflict parties operated hundreds of accounts on social media through which they monitored posts they deemed undesirable.^{516} Social media platforms also became an arena where AI-generated 'deepfakes' were frequently used to disseminate fake news about the respective opposing warring party, including images of alleged atrocities/attacks against civilians and civilian infrastructure.^{517}

War propaganda also framed narratives about certain tribes supporting either the RSF or the SAF, heightening the spread of hate speech towards some tribes.^{518} Ethnic hate speech in social media amid ongoing tensions between Arabs and Zaghawa in Darfur was exploited by the warring parties as a driver of recruitment of new fighters.^{519}

□ (c) Mobile networks, internet access, and blackouts

The conflict has witnessed frequent deliberate disruptions of the internet,⁵²⁰ with both the SAF and the RSF shutting down the internet to obstruct information flows in areas controlled by the opposing party. A near-total communication blackout occurred in February 2024 following a disruption of all networks and internet services,⁵²¹ affecting the entire country.⁵²² The shutdown was attributed to the RSF,⁵²³ who had reportedly seized facilities of the country's main internet service providers (ISPs)⁵²⁴ (those of MTN, Zain Sudan, and Sudani)⁵²⁵ in retaliation for a similar blackout imposed by the SAF in the largely RSF-controlled Darfur region in 2023.⁵²⁶ It was noted that the blackout followed the lapse of an ultimatum that the RSF had issued to Zain Sudan (Sudan's largest mobile carrier and internet provider), to restore services in Darfur, as well as similar orders and threats to the other two networks.⁵²⁷ As the shutdown continued, it restricted the ability of millions of people to communicate with their families, access essential necessities for survival,⁵²⁸ and receive mobile money services, and seek safety from fighting.⁵²⁹ While very limited levels of connectivity were re-established during the following weeks⁵³⁰ as two of the three major ISPs (Zain Sudan and Sudani) set up new data centres in Port Sudan,⁵³¹ full service on all ISPs was not restored until May 2024.⁵³²

According to Freedom House, more localised disruptions of the internet were reported in areas with ongoing hostilities throughout the period from June 2023 to May 2024, including in Khartoum, Omdurman and in towns in the Darfur and Kordofan regions.⁵³³ Disruptions like these have severely hampered the work of journalists⁵³⁴ and exacerbated the humanitarian situation by impeding aid deliveries⁵³⁵ and preventing residents from documenting acts of violence committed by the warring parties.⁵³⁶ Repeated internet and communication outages resulted in healthcare providers losing contact with survivors, or survivors unable to call for medical support.⁵³⁷ Humanitarian organisations had difficulty keeping their co-workers and communities briefed as information could not be shared effectively during connectivity shutdowns.⁵³⁸

Due to frequent internet disruptions and damage or instability of existing communications infrastructure, there was increased reliance on Starlink's satellite-based service,⁵³⁹ despite the fact that its cost was prohibitive to many civilians⁵⁴⁰ and organisations⁵⁴¹ and its use remained unauthorised,⁵⁴² with the SAF-led government seeking to restrict the use of Starlink devices as they were being used extensively by the RSF.⁵⁴³ A chief editor of a local independent newspaper who was interviewed by the Committee to Protect Journalists (CPJ) pointed out that while many journalists on the ground were accessing the internet through Starlink, this was a dangerous endeavour as the RSF was able to locate journalists using the service and retaliate against them for covering atrocities committed by the RSF.⁵⁴⁴

The RSF seized critical communication infrastructure in April 2023, including Sudan TV and Sudatel Data Centre, and in April 2024, the RSF shut down telecommunication services offered by MTN Sudan and Sudani, the two major telecommunication companies, and forced Zain Sudan, the third largest, to suspend services to River Nile State and Port Sudan.⁵⁴⁵ Radio Dabanga reported that the RSF has carried out sabotage operations against telecommunications infrastructure in Al Jazirah state, and that the SAF has deprived Al Jazirah and other states of the Sudani network.⁵⁴⁶ In April 2024, Sudan suspended the operating licences of Saudi owned broadcasters Al Arabiya and Al Hadat, as well as United Arab Emirates (UAE)-owned Sky News Arabia for their 'lack of commitment to the required professionalism and transparency and failure to renew its licenses'.⁵⁴⁷ On 2 October 2024, Radio Dabanga reported that, according to the Sudanese Journalists Syndicate (SJS), the current conflict has decimated 90 % of the country's media infrastructure and that 80 % of Sudan's states are cut off from access to internet and telecommunications, which makes it 'difficult to report on the war's developments'.⁵⁴⁸

Free Press Unlimited, Support for Sudan Media Forum's Silence Kills' campaign, 6 November 2024, url;
Sudan Tribune, Journalists under attack, media devastated amidst Sudanese conflict, 4 May 2024, url

500

Sudan Tribune, Journalists under attack, media devastated amidst Sudanese conflict, 4 May 2024, url

501

Free Press Unlimited, Support for Sudan Media Forum's Silence Kills' campaign, 6 November 2024, url

502

UN Human Rights Council, Findings of the investigations conducted by the Independent International Fact-Finding Mission for the Sudan into violations of international human rights law and international humanitarian law, and related crimes, committed in the Sudan in the context of the conflict that erupted in mid-April 2023, A/HRC/57/CRP.6, 23 October 2024, url, para. 196

503

Index on Censorship, The deadly challenges of reporting on Sudan's "forgotten war", 15 February 2024, url

504

UN Human Rights Council, Findings of the investigations conducted by the Independent International Fact-Finding Mission for the Sudan into violations of international human rights law and international humanitarian law, and related crimes, committed in the Sudan in the context of the conflict that erupted in mid-April 2023, A/HRC/57/CRP.6, 23 October 2024, url, para. 139

505

Sudan Tribune, Journalists under attack, media devastated amidst Sudanese conflict, 4 May 2024, url

506

Free Press Unlimited, Support for Sudan Media Forum's Silence Kills' campaign, 6 November 2024, url

507

Index on Censorship, The deadly challenges of reporting on Sudan's "forgotten war", 15 February 2024, url ;
UN Human Rights Council, Findings of the investigations conducted by the Independent International Fact-Finding Mission for the Sudan into violations of international human rights law and international humanitarian law, and related crimes, committed in the Sudan in the context of the conflict that erupted in mid-April 2023, A/HRC/57/CRP.6, 23 October 2024, url, para. 271

508

Index on Censorship, The deadly challenges of reporting on Sudan's "forgotten war", 15 February 2024, url

509

Free Press Unlimited, Support needed for Sudanese media to keep All Eyes On Sudan, 8 July 2024, url

510

International Crisis Group, Inside Sudan's Catastrophic Civil War, 7 November 2024, url; Middle East Council on Global Affairs, The War in Sudan: Unfolding Humanitarian Crisis and Diplomatic Impasse, 4 November 2024, url; DW, Sudanese refugees in Germany decry forgotten war, 21 April 2024, url

511

World (The), Journalist says parts of Sudan's capital are now 'almost unrecognizable', 7 June 2024, url

512

CPI, CPI urges Sudan authorities to end suspensions of 3 news outlets, 3 April 2024, url

513

Netherlands, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, General Country of Origin Information Report on Sudan, May 2024, url, p. 56

514

Freedom House, Freedom on the Net 2024, 16 October 2024, url

515

ADDO, War propaganda.. concept and application in the Sudan war, Medium, 15 November 2024, url

516

Netherlands, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, General Country of Origin Information Report on Sudan, May 2024, url, p. 56

517

Suliman, M., The Deepfake is a powerful weapon in the war in Sudan, African Arguments, 23 October 2024, url

518

ADDO, War propaganda.. concept and application in the Sudan war, Medium, 15 November 2024, url

519

Ayin Network et al., Sudan Conflict Monitor # 14, 30 June 2024, url, p. 3

521

Amnesty International, Sudan: Internet shutdown threatens delivery of humanitarian and emergency services, 8 March 2024, url

523

CPJ, ‘Back to the dark ages’: Editor Ataf Mohamed on Sudan’s wartime communications blackout, 21 March 2024, url; Amnesty International, Sudan: Internet shutdown threatens delivery of humanitarian and emergency services, 8 March 2024, url; Freedom House, Freedom on the Net 2024, 16 October 2024, url

525

UN Human Rights Council, Findings of the investigations conducted by the Independent International Fact-Finding Mission for the Sudan into violations of international human rights law and international humanitarian law, and related crimes, committed in the Sudan in the context of the conflict that erupted in mid-April 2023, A/HRC/57/CRP.6, 23 October 2024, url, para. 268; Mnejja, K., Internet in Conflict: Sudan’s Battle for Connection, TIMEP, 19 September 2024, url

526

Amnesty International, Sudan: Internet shutdown threatens delivery of humanitarian and emergency services, 8 March 2024, url

527

Ayin Network et al., Sudan Conflict Monitor # 11, 12 March 2024, url, p. 6

528

UN Human Rights Council, Findings of the investigations conducted by the Independent International Fact-Finding Mission for the Sudan into violations of international human rights law and international humanitarian law, and related crimes, committed in the Sudan in the context of the conflict that erupted in mid-April 2023, A/HRC/57/CRP.6, 23 October 2024, url, para. 268; Amnesty International, Sudan: Internet shutdown threatens delivery of humanitarian and emergency services, 8 March 2024, url

529

Amnesty International, Sudan: Internet shutdown threatens delivery of humanitarian and emergency services, 8 March 2024, url

530

Mnejja, K., Internet in Conflict: Sudan’s Battle for Connection, TIMEP, 19 September 2024, url; Freedom House, Freedom on the Net 2024, 16 October 2024, url

531

Mnejja, K., Internet in Conflict: Sudan’s Battle for Connection, TIMEP, 19 September 2024, url

534

CPI, One year into Sudan's civil war, its media faces grave threats, 12 April 2024, url

535

Mnejja, K., Internet in Conflict: Sudan's Battle for Connection, TIMEP, 19 September 2024, url; Freedom House, Freedom on the Net 2024, 16 October 2024, url

537

UN Human Rights Council, Findings of the investigations conducted by the Independent International Fact-Finding Mission for the Sudan into violations of international human rights law and international humanitarian law, and related crimes, committed in the Sudan in the context of the conflict that erupted in mid-April 2023, A/HRC/57/CRP.6, 23 October 2024, url, para. 214

538

Mnejja, K., Internet in Conflict: Sudan's Battle for Connection, TIMEP, 19 September 2024, url

540

NRC et al., Joint statement: Telecommunications blackout in Sudan, 13 May 2024, url

541

Mnejja, K., Internet in Conflict: Sudan's Battle for Connection, TIMEP, 19 September 2024, url

542

Mnejja, K., Internet in Conflict: Sudan's Battle for Connection, TIMEP, 19 September 2024, url

544

CPI, 'Back to the dark ages': Editor Ataf Mohamed on Sudan's wartime communications blackout, 21 March 2024, url

545

UN, Independent International Fact-Finding Mission for the Sudan, 23 October 2024, url, para. 268; Radio Dabanga, Communications blackout continues in large parts of Sudan, 19 February 2024, url

546

Radio Dabanga, Communications blackout continues in large parts of Sudan, 19 February 2024, url

547

Reuters, Sudan suspends work of Al Arabiya, Al Hadath and Sky News Arabia channels, state news agency says, 3 April 2024, url

Radio Dabanga, Sudan journalists: '90% of media infrastructure wiped out by war', 2 October 2024, url

© European Union Agency for Asylum 2026 | Email: info@euaa.europa.eu