

2.9.1. Treatment by authorities of pro-Biafran separatists and perceived pro-Biafran supporters

2.9.1. Treatment by authorities of pro-Biafran separatists and perceived pro-Biafran supporters

For background information on pro-Biafran separatist groups, including their goals, capacity, modus operandi, areas of operation and violations perpetrated by them see EUAA COI Report – Nigeria Security Situation November 2025.

While pro-Biafra groups, inspired by the 1967–1970 secessionist movement, share the goal of secession, they differ in approach.<sup>596</sup> IPOB,<sup>597</sup> a splinter faction from the Movement for Actualization of the Sovereign State of Biafra (MASSOB), has been the most active group in the agitation for restoration of an independent Republic of Biafra for the past decade.<sup>598</sup> Founded in 2012 by Nnamdi Kanu,<sup>599</sup> IPOB has been the most militant expression of post-war Igbo nationalism.<sup>600</sup> Citing long-standing grievances of marginalisation,<sup>601</sup> the group has gained significant support both domestically and in the diaspora.<sup>602</sup> While conservative Igbo nationalists have advocated for gradual, diplomatic efforts towards fair political and economic inclusion within Nigeria, Kanu’s interpretation of Igbo nationalism has been grounded in radical separatism, aligning with the confrontational faction of the movement. In 2014, Kanu first introduced the idea of armed struggle, followed by an open call for weapons in 2015.<sup>603</sup> In 2020, he founded the Eastern Security Network (ESN),<sup>604</sup> allegedly in response to rising security threats, particularly those posed by Fulani herdsmen. IPOB claims the ESN has played a key role in reducing attacks, killings, and farm invasions across the region.<sup>605</sup> As the armed paramilitary wing of IPOB, some ESN members include former soldiers who served in the Nigerian army, while others are civilians trained in basic combat skills. Many are armed with military-grade rifles.<sup>606</sup>

In 2017, the Nigerian Federal Government and South-East Governors proscribed IPOB as a terrorist organisation.<sup>607</sup> His leader, Nnamdi Kanu, who has also British nationality, was arrested in Nigeria in 2015 but disappeared while on bail in 2017.<sup>608</sup> In 2021, he was detained in Kenya and later reappeared in a Nigerian court that same year, facing seven charges of terrorism, which he denies in his ongoing trial.<sup>609</sup> Kanu’s trial has faced repeated delays, judicial recusals, and two rejected bail applications.<sup>610</sup> In October 2023, the Enugu High Court ruled the designation of IPOB as terrorist group unconstitutional;<sup>611</sup> a ruling which was however overturned by Nigeria’s Supreme Court the same year.<sup>612</sup> In January 2025, a unanimous three-member panel of the Court of Appeal upheld the proscription, ruling that the government acted lawfully.613 In response, IPOB filed a notice of appeal at the Supreme Court on 7 February 2025, challenging the decision.614

The Nigerian senior security advisor stated that, while initially IPOB backed armed struggle - with its leader urging loyalists to take up arms against the Nigerian state and 'take down' security personnel - in recent years, the group has shifted to a non-violent approach, calling for the realisation of Biafra through peaceful means, particularly through a referendum. The source added that such a change in messaging must be seen more as a tactical rather than an ideological shift, namely as a legal strategy tied to Kanu's trial, aimed at softening his image and gaining international support.615

Following the re-arrest of Kanu in 2021, Finland-based Simon Ekpa, a self-proclaimed disciple of Kanu, gained prominence as the new lead broadcaster for Radio Biafra.616 Ekpa was however removed within a few months after refusing to sign the Radio's rules of engagement.617 In July 2021, Simon Ekpa declared that the Biafra movement had entered an 'autopilot phase' 618 and in 2022 he announced the establishment of the Biafra Republic Government in Exile (BRGIE).619 His faction began recruiting fighters, including from the ESN, who became known as 'Autopilot'. BRGIE, a diaspora-led separatist group, is now considered as a more violent group than IPOB, which has distanced itself from it. Since 2023, fighters under Ekpa's rebranded BRGIE group have been linked to rising violence in the region.620

In November 2024, Ekpa was arrested in Finland by the National Bureau of Investigation (NBI) on suspicion of inciting terrorism and spreading violent separatist propaganda online.621 In March 2025, Nigeria's Sanctions Committee designated Simon Ekpa, several IPOB members, and affiliated businesses as terrorism financiers, citing their role in funding and inciting attacks linked to IPOB's armed wing, the ESN. Ekpa was accused of organising 49 international fundraising campaigns between October 2023 and September 2024, allegedly used to support violence in southeastern Nigeria.622 These actions were reportedly coordinated through social media, particularly X, and linked to a broader digital propaganda strategy,623 also aimed at spreading disinformation and amplifying calls for civil disobedience.624

IPOB and ESN members were killed by Nigerian security forces during special operations625 (see EUAA COI Report - Nigeria Security Situation November 2025). State repression against separatist movements and their perceived sympathisers is described as 'frequent' and 'excessive'.626 Nigerians living in the South-East have been at risk of arbitrary arrests amid the government's campaign against IPOB's armed wing.627 National media reported cases where government security raided communities in the South-East states, harassing and arresting individuals, who were later released,628 as well as cases of harassment and extortion of Igbo at checkpoints in the South-East.629 A 2024 report by local NGO International Society for Civil Liberties and the Rule of Law (Intersociety)630 indicated that Nigerian security forces were accused of committing extensive human rights violations in Eastern Nigeria under the pretext of combating 'IPOB/ESN/Biafra terrorism'. These included arbitrary arrests, prolonged detentions without trial, secret abductions, torture, extrajudicial killings, enforced disappearances, and destruction of civilian property. Intersociety further alleged that the security operations affected unarmed Igbo civilians and reported that state forces were responsible for over twice as many civilian deaths (32 300) compared to those attributed to armed non-state actors (14 500) in the region.<sup>631</sup> Similarly, a Nigerian senior security advisor told the EUAA that real or suspected supporters of pro-Biafran agitation are often arrested and detained, sometimes for years and without formal charges or trial. Many are held in military facilities under harsh, inhumane conditions. Often, security forces carry out mass, indiscriminate arrests. According to the same source, Nigerian security forces are 'negatively disposed' to any expression of support, endorsement, or sympathy with the Biafran cause – and not just against the armed groups. 'Hundreds - if not thousands - of young people are frequently stopped at the numerous checkpoints across the South-East, and if anything linked to Biafra is found, such as content on their phones, it is treated as an offense, and they are arrested, detained or otherwise asked to bail themselves – another word for extortion.'<sup>632</sup>

The Nigerian senior security advisor added that most prominent individuals who are strongly supportive of the Biafran cause - considered 'individuals of concern' by the security system - are being monitored very closely online and offline. However, the state does not have the capacity to track the large number of people who support the cause. 'Therefore, it is unlikely that all supporters are being monitored.'<sup>633</sup>

During election periods, there have been reports of instances of voter suppression and intimidation targeting Igbo communities,<sup>634</sup> including violence against Igbo voters, online and public hate speech, destruction of Igbo-owned businesses and physical attacks.<sup>635</sup> At times, the media has portrayed Igbo individuals in ways that reinforce negative stereotypes, associating them with criminality or economic greed. Some Nigerian politicians and social media influencers have reportedly used inflammatory language to incite hostility and violence against the Igbo population.<sup>636</sup>

- <sup>596</sup>

Conversation (The), A breakdown of Biafra separatist and where Kanu fits into the picture, 18 August 2021, url

- <sup>597</sup>

IPOB, About us, n.d., url

- <sup>598</sup>

Nigerian senior security advisor, online interview with EUAA, 30 July 2025

- <sup>599</sup>

Mezie-Okoye, C. C., The Marginalization of Igbo and The Emergence of IPOB in Nigeria, 20 March 2025, url; Ibukuntomiwa, F. G. et al., Federalism and Agitation of Self-Determination in Nigeria: A Study of the Indigenous People of Biafra, March 2025, url, pp. 37-38

- <sup>600</sup>

Conversation (The), A breakdown of Biafra separatist and where Kanu fits into the picture, 18 August 2021, url

- 601

Sun (The), Igbo marginalisation in Nigeria: A deepening divide, 24 February 2025, url

- 602

Ibukuntomiwa, F. G. et al., Federalism and Agitation of Self-Determination in Nigeria: A Study of the Indigenous People of Biafra, March 2025, url, p. 38

- 603

Conversation (The), A breakdown of Biafra separatist and where Kanu fits into the picture, 18 August 2021, url

- 604

Guardian (The), Why IPOB formed Eastern Security Network, by Kanu, 16 December 2020, url

- 605

EONS Intelligence, IPOB Celebrates 4th Anniversary of Eastern Security Network, Commends Operatives for Bravery and Sacrifices, 30 January 2025, url

- 606

Nigerian senior security advisor, online interview with EUAA, 30 July 2025

- 607

Premium Times, Appeal Court affirms IPOB's proscription as terrorist group, 30 January 2025, url; Round Check, Uncovering Pro-IPOB Accounts Using Foreign Faces to Promote Secession With Propaganda On Elon Musk's X, 14 December 2024, url

- 608

Reuters, Separatist Kanu faces new trial in Nigeria under fourth judge, 21 March 2025, url

- 609

Reuters, Fact Check: Kenya has not demanded Nigeria return separatist leader, 19 June 2025, url

- 610

Reuters, Separatist Kanu faces new trial in Nigeria under fourth judge, 21 March 2025, url

- 611

Premium Times, Appeal Court affirms IPOB's proscription as terrorist group, 30 January 2025, url; Round Check, Uncovering Pro-IPOB Accounts Using Foreign Faces to Promote Secession With Propaganda On Elon Musk's X, 14 December 2024, url

- 612

AP, Nigeria's Supreme Court reinstates terrorism charges against separatist leader, 15 December 2023, url

- 613

Punch, Appeal court upholds IPOB's proscription, 30 January 2025, url

- 614

Business Day, IPOB challenges proscription ruling at Supreme Court, 8 February 2025, url

- 615

Nigerian senior security advisor, online interview with EUAA, 30 July 2025

- 616

Nigerian senior security advisor, online interview with EUAA, 30 July 2025. A central instrument in Biafra's propaganda strategy during the civil war, Radio Biafra has remained an important communication channel to disseminate official narratives, often biased and falsified. See Wolff, R., Visual Propaganda and Biafran National Identity: Artists Constructing a Nation During Wartime, 27 January 2025, url

- 617

Sun (The), IPOB sacks Kanu's successor in Radio Biafra, 22 July 2021, url

- 618

Sahara Reporters, IPOB Counters Nnamdi Kanu's Disciple, Simon Ekpa, Says Group Not On Autopilot, 18 August 2021, url; Nigerian senior security advisor, online interview with EUAA, 30 July 2025

- 619

Sahara Reporters, Nnamdi Kanu's Self-professed Disciple, Simon Ekpa Declares Full Biafran Government In Exile, Says No Going Back On Separation From Nigeria, 2 August 2022, url

- 620

Nigerian senior security advisor, online interview with EUAA, 30 July 2025

- 621

VOA, Nigeria hopes for extradition of separatist leader, but analysts are skeptical, 22 November 2024, url; HumAngle, Simon Ekpa Has Benn Imprisoned. What Does it Mean for IPOB Agitation?, 21 November 2024, url

- 622

Premium Times, Nigerian govt designates Simon Ekpa, IPOB members, Lakurawa, firms as terrorist financiers, 7 March 2025, url

- 623

Dubawa, How disinformation fuels pro-Biafran agenda on social media while undermining democracy, 18 March 2025, url; FIJ, Simon Ekpa's BRGIE Enjoys Uninterrupted Broadcast on X Despite Terrorism Financing Case, 27 May 2025, url

- 624

Round Check, Uncovering Pro-IPOB Accounts Using Foreign Faces to Promote Secession With Propaganda On Elon Musk's X, 14 December 2024, url; AFP Fact Check, Video of Musk saying Trump will secure Nigerian separatist's freedom is deepfake, 20 March 2025, url; Reuters, Fact Check: No evidence Trump called for Nigerian separatist's release; audio synthetic, experts say, 6 December 2024, url

- 625

Nigeria Watch, Fourteenth Report on Violence 2024, url, p. 14; Premium Times, Soldiers' Killing: Nigerian troops kill six suspected IPOB members in Abia forest, 9 June 2024, url; Premium Times, IPOB: About 200 security agents killed in South East - SSS Witness, 18 June 2025, url

- 626

Bertelsmann Stiftung, BTI 2024 Country Report Nigeria, 19 March 2024, url, p. 9

- 627

Freedom House, Freedom on the World 2025 - Nigeria, 26 February 2025, url

- 628

Premium Times, Abia killing: Tension as soldiers arrest several people, harass residents, 1 June 2025, url; The Cable, Troops 'raid Abia communities, arrest residents', over killing of soldiers, 2 June 2024, url ;

- 629

Vanguard, We're being treated like evil, slaves at road checkpoints - South East road users, 28 August 2024, url

- 630

Intersociety is a local NGO whose declared aim is to promote and protect democracy, rule of law, and human rights through research, documentation, advocacy, and public engagement. See Intersociety, About us, n.d., url

- 631

Intersociety, Nigeria's leading human rights group releases two special international reports on rights abuses and violations in the East, 22 December 2024, url, p. 5

- 632

Nigerian senior security advisor, online interview with EUAA, 30 July 2025

- 633

Nigerian senior security advisor, online interview with EUAA, 30 July 2025

- 634

Sun (The), Igbo marginalisation in Nigeria: A deepening divide, 24 February 2025, url

- 635

Mezie-Okoye, C. C., The Marginalization of Igbo and The Emergence of IPOB in Nigeria, 20 March 2025, url

- 636

Ivorgba, E. A., Historical analysis of Igbo-phobia and its impact on national integration in Nigeria, April 2025, url, pp. 1109-1110