

2. Political and economic developments

2.1. Recent political developments

On 9 January 2025, Joseph Aoun, a Maronite Christian<sup>95</sup> and former army chief, was elected President of Lebanon through secret indirect suffrage by the parliament.<sup>96</sup> He secured 99 out of 128 votes in a second round,<sup>97</sup> ending a 26-month presidential vacuum.<sup>98</sup> During this period Lebanon was governed by a caretaker administration, struggling with political deadlock and a deep economic crisis.<sup>99</sup>

Shortly after his election, Aoun announced the formation of a new government<sup>100</sup> with Nawaf Salam, a Sunni Muslim<sup>101</sup> and President of the International Court of Justice, designated as Prime Minister on 13 January 2025. Salam secured the support of 84 out of 128 parliamentarians' votes.<sup>102</sup> On 8 February 2025, the President signed a decree appointing the Prime Minister's new government composed of 24 ministers, including five women.<sup>103</sup> The new cabinet also includes several independent persons, such as former UN envoy Ghassan Salame, reflecting a shift in Lebanon's political landscape after Hezbollah's weakened influence and the end of a prolonged political deadlock.<sup>104</sup>

According to the French Institute for International and Strategic Affairs (IRIS), one of the key achievements of the new executive lies in eliminating the 'blocking third' clause, which was established by the 2008 Doha Agreement. This clause granted any political party holding one-third of the ministers plus one, the power to veto and overturn the government. This mechanism had been repeatedly exploited by the Shia tandem of Amal Movement and Hezbollah, along with their allies.<sup>105</sup> Despite this, the new president has received broad support, including from the political wing of Hezbollah and Amal Movement in the parliament.<sup>106</sup>

To maintain confessional balance and secure political support, Lebanon's new government assigned the Finance Ministry to Yassine Jaber, an Amal-backed figure close to Speaker Nabih Berri. This ensured that the Shia tandem of Hezbollah and Amal retains significant influence despite lacking formal veto power.<sup>107</sup> In addition, several other ministers, including women like Tamara Elzein (former Secretary-General of Lebanon's National Council for Scientific Research, and former Vice President of the Lebanese National Commission for UNESCO) and Haneen Sayed (World Bank economist), come from academic and professional backgrounds, reflecting a mix of technocratic expertise alongside political appointments.<sup>108</sup>

Although Hezbollah and Amal continue to hold all 27 Shia seats in the 128-member parliament,<sup>109</sup> the Shia community has suffered major setbacks after the war with Israel and the fall of the Assad regime, with many areas in ruins and weakened leadership.<sup>110</sup> According to the United Nations Secretary-General's July 2025 report, the formation of a government and the holding of municipal elections were significant steps toward extending the authority of the Lebanese state at the local level.<sup>111</sup>

While the formation of the new government has reshaped Lebanon's political and economic landscape,<sup>112</sup> President Aoun and Prime Minister Salam remain under intense domestic and international pressure to implement structural reforms while maintaining state control and pursuing Hezbollah's disarmament.<sup>113</sup> On 5 September 2025, the Cabinet led by President Joseph Aoun approved the Lebanese Army's plan to hold the sole authority over weapons, prompting all five Shia ministers to walk out in protest —Hezbollah and Amal ministers leaving first, followed by independent minister Fadi Makki, reflecting their opposition to Hezbollah's disarmament.<sup>114</sup> On 24 September 2025, during a parliamentary session on a new election law, Hezbollah and Amal MPs suggested linking Hezbollah's disarmament to full implementation of the Taif Accord, while Christian leaders called for decentralisation or federalism, highlighting a chance to combine disarmament with broader political reform.<sup>115</sup> For more information on the process of disarmament, see section 6.2 Overview of security dynamics related to recent developments with Israel.

2.2. International context

Lebanon's modern history, shaped by over a century of foreign intervention, including 20 years under the French Mandate, 30 years of Syrian influence, and repeated Israeli invasions, has seen various communities, including Christians, Sunnis, and Shias, alternately seeking foreign protection or support from the state when it aligned with their political and demographic interests.<sup>116</sup> This historical pattern continues to shape Lebanon's present-day political landscape.<sup>117</sup> France's role remains symbolic,<sup>118</sup> while the United States supports mainly the Lebanese Armed Forces.<sup>119</sup> The Gulf states, particularly Saudi Arabia, have shifted from direct political patronage to economic leverage,<sup>120</sup> while Iran has entrenched its power by backing Hezbollah<sup>121</sup> for decades and reinforcing its political and military role.<sup>122</sup> Meanwhile, Lebanon's relationship with Syria has been tense and often hostile, marked by wars, assassinations, occupation, and conflicts.<sup>123</sup>

The country's political system has long been shaped by the influence of international actors pursuing their own agendas within the country's domestic affairs.<sup>124</sup> Following independence from France in 1943, these founders viewed non-recognition of Israel as essential for maintaining strong relations with Arab states,<sup>125</sup> a decision that laid the foundation for Lebanon's complex and often tense relationship with Israel over the past seventy-five years.<sup>126</sup>

95

Le Monde, Who is Joseph Aoun, Lebanon's new president?, 11 January 2025, url

96

IRIS, Presidential Election in Lebanon: Dynamics and Internal and External Challenges, 10 January 2025, url ; BBC, Lebanon country profile, 10 January 2025, url; Al Jazeera, Who is Joseph Aoun, the new president of Lebanon, 9 January 2025, url

97

UNSG, Implementation of Security Council resolution 1701 (2006) during the period from 21 October 2024 to 20 February 2025, report of the Secretary-General, 12 March 2025, url, para. 52

98

UNSG, Implementation of Security Council resolution 1701 (2006) during the period from 21 October 2024 to 20 February 2025, report of the Secretary-General, S/2025/153, 12 March 2025, url, para. 52

99

Al Jazeera, Lebanon names new government after two-year caretaker cabinet, 8 February 2025, url

100

Al Jazeera, Lebanon names new government after two-year caretaker cabinet, 8 February 2025, url

101

Atlantic Council, Lebanon's prime minister-designate is unlikely to confront Hezbollah, 29 January 2025, url; Al Jazeera, Who is Nawaf Salam, Lebanon's PM-designate amid political shift?, 14 January 2025, url BBC, ICJ president Nawaf Salam named Lebanon's new prime minister, 13 January 2025, url

102

UNSG, Implementation of Security Council resolution 1701 (2006) during the period from 21 October 2024 to 20 February 2025, report of the Secretary-General, 12 March 2025, url, para. 54

103

UNSG, Implementation of Security Council resolution 1701 (2006) during the period from 21 October 2024 to 20 February 2025, report of the Secretary-General, 12 March 2025, url, para. 54

104

Le Monde, Lebanon's PM announces new government, 8 February 2025, url

105

IRIS, New Faces, Same Challenges? An Analysis of the Appointment of the Lebanese Government., 14 February 2025, url

106

DW, Lebanon: New president sparks hope for Mideast stability, 10 January 2025, url; RFE/RL, Election Of New Lebanese President Signals Iran's Waning Influence, 10 January 2025, url; Reuters, Lebanon's army chief elected president, showing weakened Hezbollah, 9 January 2025, url

107

IRIS, New Faces, Same Challenges? An Analysis of the Appointment of the Lebanese Government., 14 February 2025, url

108

The New Arab, Who are some of New Lebanon's new ministers?, 8 April 2025, url

109

Arab News, Why the future of Lebanon's fragile state rests on Hezbollah's next move, 21 July 2025, url

110

L'Orient Today, 35 years after the Christians, the Shiites face the twilight of their domination, 12 August 2025, url

111

UNSG, Implementation of Security Council resolution 1701 (2006) during the period from 21 February to 20 June 2025, report of the Secretary-General, S/2025/460, 11 July 2025, url, para. 77

112

IRIS, New Faces, Same Challenges? An Analysis of the Appointment of the Lebanese Government., 14 February 2025, url

113

Reuters, US envoy to warn Lebanon over Hezbollah's influence in government, 6 February 2025, url; Financial Times, Lebanon's PM calls for global funding as it pushes to disarm Hezbollah, 29 August 2025, url; BTI, Lebanon at a Turning Point? New Signals and Old Power Structures, 7 May 2025, url

114

This is Beirut, Cabinet Backs Army's Disarmament Plan Despite Shia Ministers' Walkout, 5 September 2025, url; Naharnet, Govt. 'welcomes' army's weapons monopoly plan, asks for monthly reports, 5 September 2025, url

115

The National, How to disarm Hezbollah using a handy political lever, 24 September 2025, url

116

This is Beirut, The Guardianship Syndrome, 5 September 2025, url

117

CFR, Lebanon: How Israel, Hezbollah, and Regional Powers Are Shaping Its Future, 27 January 2025, url; Al Jazeera, Analysis: How is Lebanon's Hezbollah regrouping after war with Israel?, 28 September 2025, url;

118

PISM, France Seeks Greater Role in Political Transitions in the Middle East, 9 June 2025, url

119

Reuters, US sends $230 million to Lebanon as it moves to disarm Hezbollah, sources say, 3 October 2025, url

120

Reuters, Saudi Arabia is optimistic about Lebanon under reforms, Saudi FM says in Beirut, 23 January 2025, url

121

Al Jazeera, Analysis: How is Lebanon's Hezbollah regrouping after war with Israel?, 28 September 2025, url ;

122

ECFR, Beyond proxies: Iran's deeper strategy in Syria and Lebanon, 5 June 2024, url

123

The New Arab, A new chapter in Lebanon-Syria relations takes shape, 7 January 2025, url

124

IRIS, Presidential Election in Lebanon: Dynamics and Internal and External Challenges, 10 January 2025, url

125

Al Jazeera, Beyond Hezbollah: The history of tensions between Lebanon and Israel, 17 October 2023, url

126

The Caire Review of Global Affairs, Another Step Toward Peace: The Lebanon-Israel Maritime Agreement, 22 February 2023, url