

2.2.2. Impact of political transition in Syria on power dynamics in Lebanon

2.2.2. Impact of political transition in Syria on power dynamics in Lebanon

The fall of Assad regime in Syria in December 2024 has been widely celebrated in Lebanon, particularly by members of the far-right Lebanese Forces (LF) party who were critical of the Syrian occupation of Lebanon 136 that began in 1976 and ended in 2005 following the assassination of former Prime Minister Rafiq Hariri, for which Syria was widely accused. 137

However, the fall of the Assad regime was a significant loss for Hezbollah 138 as it cut off its ‘land corridor’ with Iran from which it was receiving arms, logistical supplies 139 and military advisors. 140 For decades, Hezbollah has been a major force in Lebanese politics, spearheading the pro-Syria March 8 Coalition against the anti-Syria March 14 Coalition. 141 However, Hezbollah has recently weakened due to the loss of its key leaders, 142 including Hassan Nasrallah, in its war with Israel 143 and the collapse of its ally, Bashar al-Assad’s regime in Syria. 144 For more information on Hezbollah, see section 5.1 Hezbollah.

Cited by The New Arab news, Ali Rizk, a Beirut-based political and security analyst stated that the fall of Assad ‘clearly undermined Hezbollah politically in Lebanon.’ 145 The source further noted that the new Syrian government holds an anti-Hezbollah stance, and certain actors within the emerging political landscape of ‘New Syria’ are deeply hostile toward both the Lebanese Shia group and Tehran. 146 In addition, the collapse of the Syrian regime has created an unstable security environment along the Lebanese-Syrian border, as Israeli airstrikes have weakened Hezbollah, and new militia groups hostile to Hezbollah have taken control of key border crossings, replacing both Syrian forces and Hezbollah militants and further undermining Lebanon’s already fragile authority in these areas. 147 On 27 March 2025, Lebanese and Syrian defence ministers signed a Saudi-brokered agreement in Jeddah to enhance border security coordination and address military threats alongside their shared border. 148

136

The New Arab, How the fall of Assad regime marks a new chapter for Lebanon, 9 December 2024, url

137

France24, Lebanon marks 20th anniversary of Rafik Hariri’s assassination, 14 February 2025, url

138

International Crisis Group, Regional perspectives on the house of Assad’s fall, 17 December 2024, url

139

SWP, The fall of the Assad regime: regional and international power shifts, 25 February 2025, url; Al Jazeera, Syria war to have ‘massive’ effect on Lebanon: US envoy Hochstein, 7 December 2024, url

140

BBC, End of Assad rule will reshape region’s balance of power, 8 December 2024, url

141

Geopolitical Monitor, The Post-Nasrallah Era: A Seismic Shift in Lebanon’s Politics, Geopolitical Monitor, 5 November 2024, url

142

Al Jazeera, Is Hezbollah weakened as Lebanon shifts towards new governance?, 21 January 2025, url

143

AP, Israel strikes Hezbollah in a huge blast targeting the militant group’s leader, 28 September 2024, url

144

IRIS, The Fall of Bashar al-Assad in Syria: What Are the Consequences for Iran?, 11 December 2024, url; Maddox B, The fall of President Bashar al-Assad is a blow to Iran and Russia – and a boost for Turkey, Chatham House, 8 December 2024, url

145

The New Arab, Could Lebanese-Syrian relations move past Assad, Hezbollah era grievances?, 28 February 2025, url

146

The New Arab, Could Lebanese-Syrian relations move past Assad, Hezbollah era grievances?, 28 February 2025, url

147

Diwan, Pushing back against Hezbollah, 21 February 2025, url

148

L’Orient Today, Lebanon and Syria reach key agreement on border security, 28 March 2025, url