

7.6.3. Socio-economic conditions

7.6.3. Socio-economic conditions

Around 90 % of Syrian refugees were reported to live in ‘extreme poverty’<sup>715</sup> or below the poverty line.<sup>716</sup> Many Syrian refugees were housed in informal and illegal camps<sup>717</sup> and small-scale settlements,<sup>718</sup> facing poor living conditions with insufficient health structures or safe drinking water<sup>719</sup> and being subject to curfews and other limitations to freedom of movement.<sup>720</sup> Lack of legal residency permits, concerning 93 % of all Syrian refugee households, restricted freedom of movement and access to basic services, healthcare and work, as well as access to justice.<sup>721</sup> Some Syrian refugees secondarily displaced by the hostilities in autumn 2024 had lost legal documentation, making the renewal of their rental contracts difficult. Without legal residency, Syrians were vulnerable to exploitation on the housing market, with landlords charging inflated rents, subjecting them to arbitrarily evictions, and favouring Lebanese tenants over Syrians.<sup>722</sup>

While Syrians in Lebanon worked in a variety of domains, discrimination<sup>723</sup> and strict requirements regarding the issuance of residency papers and work permits have made it difficult for Syrians to find formal employment.<sup>724</sup> Moreover, Syrian refugees were vulnerable to exploitation at the workplace and child labour was frequent within the refugee community.<sup>725</sup> In May 2024, the General Directorate of General Security announced a series of new measures and rules, including the prohibition for Lebanese nationals ‘to employ, shelter, or provide housing for Syrians residing illegally in Lebanon’. The Directorate also demanded the closure of ‘all illegal establishments and shops managed or invested by Syrians’, threatening ‘appropriate measures against anyone who employs foreign workers in violation of the residency system and the labour law’.<sup>726</sup> Moreover, it disallowed UNHCR-registered Syrians from practising any remunerated work outside the employment sectors specified for them.<sup>727</sup> Syrian refugees also had few property rights.<sup>728</sup>

Syrian refugees continued to be affected by restricted healthcare access due to various factors such as limited availability, conflict-induced disruptions in the provision of services, cuts in humanitarian funding, and prioritisation of Lebanese nationals. Both the North and South Governorates were affected by insufficient availability and unaffordability of medical services. In areas of Baalbek/the Bekaa Valley, humanitarian aid was frequently distributed at collective shelters, resulting in limited access to support for Syrian refugees accommodated in privately rented housing.<sup>729</sup> Severe shortfalls in humanitarian funding has led to a decrease in aid for Syrians in Lebanon.<sup>730</sup> UNHCR announced that it would discontinue its support for hospitalisation costs for refugees in the country by the end of 2025.<sup>731</sup> Similarly, both UNHCR and the WFP have significantly reduced the number of Syrians eligible for cash assistance.<sup>732</sup>

A large proportion of Syrian children were reported to be lacking access to education.<sup>733</sup> Following public calls in 2024 for restrictions on access to schools for Syrian refugee children,<sup>734</sup> the authorities, ahead of the 2024–25 school year,<sup>735</sup> introduced documentation requirements for children.<sup>736</sup> As of the first quarter of 2025, UNHCR noted that public schools across the country excluded Syrian children who did not have legal documentation (either legal residency or a UNHCR registration certificate). However, even some children holding valid documentation faced difficulties accessing education,<sup>737</sup> with multiple municipalities denying even UNHCR-registered refugees access to public schooling if they lacked legal residency.<sup>738</sup> Moreover, numerous Syrian refugees were unable to afford the cost of schooling and transport fees for their children, while others could not register their children at schools due to limited capacity.<sup>739</sup> Children prevented from attending school were vulnerable to risks such as child labour and work-related abuse.<sup>740</sup>

Mass displacement due to Israeli bombardment in autumn 2024 resulted in collective shelters becoming overwhelmed, leaving numerous people on the streets.<sup>741</sup> Many facilities effectively turned into ‘Lebanese-only’ spaces,<sup>742</sup> compounding refugees’ struggle to secure basic needs such as food, housing and medical care.<sup>743</sup> Restrictions on returns to certain municipalities and inflated rents charged in urban zones limited Syrian refugees’ prospects of finding safe shelter, resulting in prolonged displacement.<sup>744</sup> At the same time, it was noted that discrimination was not universal, with some Lebanese accepting Syrian refugees into their homes, while some NGOs kept their shelters accessible to everyone.<sup>745</sup>

715

TNH, Israel’s Lebanon assault: A double suffering for Syrian refugees, 2 October 2024, url

716

AI, World leaders must commit to protecting Syrian refugees as Lebanon steps up crackdown ahead of Brussels conference, 27 May 2024, url

717

ACW, Lebanon Needs Help in Dealing with Its Syrian Refugees, 10 July 2024, url

718

Freedom House, Freedom in the World 2025 – Lebanon, 2025, url, section G1

719

IPS, Lebanon’s Deep Healthcare Crisis Exposed through Communicable Diseases, 8 July 2024, url

720

Freedom House, Freedom in the World 2025 – Lebanon, 2025, url, section G1

721

UNHCR, Protection Monitoring: Situation of Forcibly Displaced Syrians in Lebanon (1st Quarter 2025), 4 July 2025, url, p. 9

722

UNHCR, Protection Monitoring: Situation of Forcibly Displaced Syrians in Lebanon (1st Quarter 2025), 4 July 2025, url, p. 11

723

New Humanitarian (The), Syrians in Lebanon stay indoors as fears of xenophobic violence grow, TNH, 22 April 2024, url

724

TNH, Israel's Lebanon assault: A double suffering for Syrian refugees, 2 October 2024, url

725

Freedom House, Freedom in the World 2025 – Lebanon, 2025, url, section G4

726

AI et al., Lebanon: Hundreds of Thousands of Syrian Refugees at Imminent Risk of Deportation, 16 May 2024, url, p. 1

727

AI et al., Lebanon: Hundreds of Thousands of Syrian Refugees at Imminent Risk of Deportation, 16 May 2024, url, p. 1

728

Freedom House, Freedom in the World 2025 – Lebanon, 2025, url, section G2

729

UNHCR, Protection Monitoring: Situation of Forcibly Displaced Syrians in Lebanon (1st Quarter 2025), 4 July 2025, url, p. 12

730

TCF, Home to Syria: Lebanon's New Refugee Returns Plan, 11 August 2025, url

731

New Arab (The), EXCLUSIVE: UNHCR confirms healthcare for Syrian refugees in Lebanon will end, 30 May 2025, url; L'Orient Today, UNHCR announces end of healthcare support for Syrian refugees in Lebanon, 28 May 2025, url

732

TCF, Home to Syria: Lebanon's New Refugee Returns Plan, 11 August 2025, url

733

CCLS, Report on Syrian Refugees in Lebanon Between Discriminatory Policies, Hate Speech and the “Death Boats”, 18 December 2024, url

734

HRW, Stop Politicizing Education for Lebanon's Refugee Children, 28 August 2024, url

735

Freedom House, Freedom in the World 2025 – Lebanon, 2025, url, section F4

736

UNHCR, Annual Results Report – 2024 Lebanon, 29 May 2025, url, p. 22

737

UNHCR, Protection Monitoring: Situation of Forcibly Displaced Syrians in Lebanon (1st Quarter 2025), 4 July 2025, url, p. 12

738

Syria Direct, Lebanon's latest Syrian refugees in limbo, 10 June 2025, url

739

UNHCR, Protection Monitoring: Situation of Forcibly Displaced Syrians in Lebanon (1st Quarter 2025), 4 July 2025, url, p. 13

740

UNHCR, Protection Monitoring: Situation of Forcibly Displaced Syrians in Lebanon (1st Quarter 2025), 4 July 2025, url, p. 12

741

UNHCR, Protection Monitoring: Situation of Forcibly Displaced Syrians in Lebanon (4th Quarter 2024), 2 January 2025, url, p. 4

742

Haid, H., Caught Between Two Wars: The Risky Return of Syrian Refugees from Lebanon, TIMEP, 13 November 2024, url

743

SNHR, A Dreadful Homecoming: Widespread Human Rights Violations Against Syrian Refugees Returning from Lebanon, 29 October 2024, url, p. 1

744

UNHCR, Protection Monitoring: Situation of Forcibly Displaced Syrians in Lebanon (1st Quarter 2025), 4 July 2025, url, p. 5

745

TNH, Israel's Lebanon assault: A double suffering for Syrian refugees, 2 October 2024, url

